Teacher of Humanities

September 2025

For boys 11-18

The School

History

Merchant Taylors' School has been one of the leading boys' schools in the UK since its foundation by the Merchant Taylors' Livery Company of the City of London in 1561. One of the nine great 'Clarendon schools', its alumni have achieved distinction throughout history. However, the school wears its heritage lightly, its strong sense of tradition very much at the service of the future. Through the Merchant Taylors' Educational Trust, it retains close links with other Merchant Taylors' schools, and with the Merchant Taylors' Company itself. Relocated from the City of London to Sandy Lodge, Northwood in 1933, the School sits on 285 acres of playing fields, and woodland, all within easy reach of Central London, Middlesex, Buckinghamshire, and Hertfordshire.

A selective school

The Nursery, the Pre-Prep & the Prep cater for 340 boys from 3 to 11 years of age, while the Senior School has over 950 pupils from 11 – 18, with over 300 in the Sixth Form (The Prep School shares some of its facilities with the Senior School, but is a separate school in its own right). Competition for places is fierce, and entry is by competitive examination at 11+, and 16+.

Academic excellence

Public examination results are outstanding, the majority of students proceeding either to leading universities as well as medical schools in the UK or abroad. We pride ourselves on our outstanding pastoral care as well as our excellent academic results, and aspiration in all areas goes well beyond the norm, making Taylors' a particularly exciting and rewarding place to teach.

Innovation

Digital Learning is a key tenet of our provision for exam classes: pupils studying for GCSEs and A Levels each have their own Surface tablet, working digitally on OneNote for most of their lessons. Staff are provided with Surface Pros and this has allowed us to reimagine what school work looks like, enhancing collaboration, differentiation, tailored feedback and engagement. Merchant Taylors' is an exciting, rewarding environment in which to teach and provides the means for the development of a successful career in a place with a real sense of community.

The Person

We are looking for a teacher of Humanities from September 2025. The role would suit a specialist in either History or Geography who is able to teach in another Humanities discipline (e.g. History, Geography, Religious Studies) in the Lower School. An interest in contributing to PSHE teaching is desirable but not essential.

The successful applicant will communicate a love of the subject to the students and work as part of an experienced, committed and friendly Faculty. We are looking for someone who will develop and embody the benefits of meaningful interdisciplinary thinking and learning in the Humanities disciplines.

The post would suit a committed practitioner who wants to attain the highest standards in teaching and learning whether they are a recent graduate or an experienced teacher. All teachers are expected to play a full part in the wider extra-curricular life of the school. You will be approachable and caring: an able communicator, with a positive and collaborative style. We expect that your commitment and ideas will make a significant contribution to enabling the school to maintain its status as one of the UK's top academic schools.

We are constantly looking to innovate and improve our teaching and there is a strong commitment to engendering independent learning. The school embraces the most diverse teaching styles and personalities, deeply believing that boys benefit from exposure to such diversity. The school is proud of its reputation as a community with a high achieving culture across a broad range of activities. Our expectations of our pupils and teachers, academically and in terms of attitude and commitment, are very high.

There is a strong Common Room culture of going the extra mile to stretch and support, in and beyond the classroom, so that every boy realises his potential. You will be ready to engage fully in the life of the school. Enthusiasm and ability are as important for this post as experience.

The Faculty

Geography Department

The Geography Department is a major part of academic and extra-curricular life at Merchant Taylors' School. All students take Geography from Year 7 to 9. Over 100 students take the subject to GCSE, with over 40 continuing with Geography at A Level. The AQA specification is followed at both GCSE and A Level. Many pupils choose to continue their study of the subject at university, including at Oxford and Cambridge. At both A Level and GCSE results are very strong, with the vast majority of pupils achieving A*-A grades.

The department has a major presence in extra-curricular activities. Trips are run off site for most year groups, including GCSE fieldwork to the Olympic Park and A Level fieldwork to Dorset. We also run regular expeditions abroad to places such as Iceland.

The Senior Geography Society is very active, there is an excellent Geographical Magazine editorial team, and the Junior Geography Society is equally enthusiastic. We welcome applications from people who might also be enthusiastic in supporting these opportunities. The department is located in a purpose-built Geography building which has six classrooms, a research room, a 6th form study room, a meeting room, and a staff office. There is also access to five HTC Vive virtual reality headsets, an iSandbox virtual reality system, a departmental library, a set of tablets, glass scribble boards, and a flexible events room.

The Department has recently been awarded funding for drone and robotics equipment for mapping and fieldwork activities.

The Faculty

History Department

The History Department has an excellent academic reputation, with multiple sets at Sixth Form, and a high number of students going on to study the subject at Oxbridge and Russell Group universities. In recent years, numerous students have also received recognition in national essay prize competitions. The department is housed in their own building, named after the famous Old Merchant Taylor E.H. Carr. There is both a large office and a well-stocked library, which is also often used for Sixth Form seminar lessons.

History is compulsory for all pupils in Years 7 to 9, where they learn about subjects as diverse as 'What is 'History' and what do historians do?' to The Making of the Modern World (US Civil Rights; The First World War). Numbers at both GCSE and A Level are consistently strong.

The Department runs a thriving Senior History Society named after Bulstrode Whitelocke OMT. Over recent years we have hosted numerous visiting speakers including Dr Nigel Bowles (Corpus Christi, Oxford), Andrew Spencer (Gonville & Caius, Cambridge) and Professor Benjamin Thompson (Somerville, Oxford). There is also a popular Junior History Society whilst the Department publishes the Harrison History Magazine, named after the revered historian Sir Brian Harrison OMT, a popular publication run by Middle and Lower School pupils.

The Department organises annual visits to the First World War Battlefields, biennial trips to Munich/Berlin for the Middle School, whilst the Sixth Form have visited in the past Vietnam and the United States. Domestic trips have included visits to the Merchant Taylors' Hall, the Tower of London, V&A exhibition: Opus Anglicanum; and the Royal Academy's Revolution: Russian Art 1917–1932.

The Faculty

Religious Studies & Philosophy Department

Religious Studies and Philosophy is compulsory at KS3. In Years 7 and 8, pupils are taught Ethics, Religion and Philosophy and in Year 9, they progress to learning about the history of philosophy, theories of religion, ethics and philosophy of religion from both religious and secular perspectives. At KS4, teaching follows the Edexcel specification B GCSE Religious Studies with a focus on Christianity and Islam. At KS5, AQA Philosophy A Level is taught. The department consistently gains excellent GCSE and A level results, with 75%+ typically gaining an A*/A grade at A Level. Students regularly enter and often enjoy successes in essay competitions. Each year, several students go on to study Philosophy, Theology and related subjects at Russell Group universities, including Oxbridge. The Department provides extension and enrichment classes to help pupils prepare for their Oxbridge interviews. The school ensures all pupils (including those who do not study the subject) are exposed to a variety of debates and religious ideas. Interfaith Week is marked with an inter-faith lunch and our pupils have previously helped to organise inter-faith evenings, which have been attended by several prominent public figures.

In one of his last public appearances, the late Chief Rabbi Lord Sacks visited the school to discuss his book 'Morality: Restoring the Common Good in Divided Times.'

He was also previously welcomed to speak about his book on confronting religious extremism, 'Not In God's Name'.

To mark Holocaust Memorial Day, the school was in the privileged position of receiving a talk from a Holocaust survivor – the abundant turnout at this talk is testament to the values of our pupils and community.
